Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 25-35 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 25-35 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Johnson (US Patent No. 4576737) and Cherukuri et al (US Patent No. 5004595) in view of Noreille et al (US 5094156) and Mothes et al (US 5104799).

Johnson teaches an encapsulated flavor composition wherein a carrier is used to form an emulsion and the emulsion is sprayed into a fluidized bed agglomerator charged with a small quantity of particulate carrier or small encapsulates (see entire patent, especially the claims).

Cherukuri et al teach a multiple encapsulated flavor delivery system and method where the flavor is encapsulated using a fluidized bed type process (see entire document).

The claims differ as to the residence time, the height, and the use of a sifter.

Noreille et al disclose an agglomeration process using a fluidized bed process in combination with a sifter (see entire patent, especially column 4, line 60 to column 5, line 8). Noreille et al also disclose that the color, texture, and density of the final product may be varied by adjustment of the process conditions (see column 6, lines 30-31).

Mothes et al disclose a process for the preparation of granules using a fluidized bed and countercurrent gravity sifters (see column 1, line 55 to column 2, line 2).

The residence time and the height would be obvious to that of Johnson and Cherukuri et al as the same components and equipment are utilized.

It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art, at the time the invention was made to use sifters and adjust the processing parameters as taught by Noreille et al and Mothes et al in that of Johnson and Cherukuri because the adjustment of parameters and the use of sifters is conventional when using fluidized bed technology in the production of flavors.

It is also noted that to make a process continuous does not add patentability to the claims, see In re Korpi, 602 OG 672.

In the absence of unexpected results, it is not seen how the claimed invention differs from the teachings of the prior art. Applicant's claims are drawn to a combination of known components which produces expected results, see In re Kerkhoven 205 USPQ 1069 and In re Gershon 152 USPQ 602.
